Note The _Brightness_ and _Contrast_ sliders may seem like a bit of a mystery. If you look at your monitor's contrast settings, you'll see the same controls, which indicates that they're not linked to a particular monitor. All you can do is try using them and see what happens. This figure shows the Brightness/Contrast controls for the Histogram panel in the bottom right of the window. Notice that it's a Brightness/Contrast dialog box instead of a Brightness/Contrast dialog box. You can edit all these settings at

By Patrick Gallagher The New York Times | September 27, 2018 The world's largest cryptocurrency exchanges collectively moved $218 billion in cryptocurrency value in the past 30 days, a report released on Tuesday shows. Despite the continued wild gyrations of bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies, the total value of cryptocurrency transactions has remained largely the same, according to the report from crypto intelligence firm Chainalysis. "Despite a massive increase in the amount of digital assets transacted in the past week, the total amount of cryptocurrency value transacted in real, fiat currency has increased at the same pace," the company said in its report. "The consistent proportion of fiat cryptocurrency transactions to the overall cryptocurrency volume suggests that the change in the balance of circulating cryptocurrencies is driven largely by the growing popularity and growth of centralized cryptocurrency exchanges," the company said. "Another key contributing factor is the increase in investment in Initial Coin Offerings [ICOs], which only began in June and look set to continue growing during the year," it added. The estimated figure for last month's 30-day period would represent a multiple of almost 40 times the amount of money that was laundered in 2018, the authors noted. The figures are from Coinmetrics, a well-known online exchange that provides tracking metrics for the world's largest cryptocurrency exchanges, including Kraken, Bitfinex, Bitstamp, Gemini, OKEx, Bittrex, GDAX, Huobi, OKCoin, WEX and more. They show monthly volume and weekly average volume of 24 major cryptocurrencies, including bitcoin, the altcoin bitcoin cash, and ethereum (ETH), from July 14, 2017, to September 12, 2018. Crypto coin demand is believed to be one of the main drivers of cryptocurrency's volatility, according to Chainalysis. Its data shows that, on average, bitcoin and ethereum transactions increase by roughly 1,400 per minute. The report notes that retail investors are far less likely than institutional investors to trade cryptocurrency with each other directly. "The market is driven mostly by large centralized cryptocurrency exchanges acting as clearinghouses for the transfer of fiat and cryptocurrencies," it said. Such exchanges can be highly profitable due to digital exchange fees, according to the report. "The average crypto exchange is paid approximately $5.2 million a year in exchange fees, resulting in an average annual income of more than $23 million per exchange," it said. "Some exchanges

Trans-stylar keratoplasty for the correction of astigmatism after retinal detachment surgery. In the modern era of vitrectomy surgery, with its attendant retinal tear, pars plana vitrectomy, and air exchange surgery, the incidence of post-operative corneal decompensation due to astigmatism is increasing. We describe a case of painful keratitis after pars plana vitrectomy and present a modification of a trans-conjunctival internal scleral keratoplasty that dramatically improved both the corneal astigmatism and keratitis. A 45-year-old male presented with bilateral painful keratitis 5 months after vitrectomy. On physical examination, his uncorrected visual acuity was 20/100 in the right eye and 20/100 in the left eye. The intraocular pressures were elevated. Axial astigmatism was noticed in both eyes by vector analysis. The stromal surface was clear, but the epithelium showed extensive haze and confluent edema. Trans-conjunctival internal scleral keratoplasty was performed for the correction of astigmatism by prying the cut eye wall apart using manual traction. There was no recurrence of keratitis during the follow-up period (9 months). In severe corneal astigmatism following pars plana vitrectomy surgery, such as that in the presented case, keratoplasty is effective in improving the astigmatism. This surgical procedure should be considered if the corneal astigmatism is more than 1.5 diopters (D).A social media storm has erupted after former Australia Test spinner Braith Anasta was listed as a potential senior advisor to the Cricket Australia board. Anasta, 43, played more than 150 Tests and 450 first-class matches for Australia. The current tour captain in India, Anasta has been appointed interim co-head coach of the India Test team in an unsuccessful attempt to shore up the team ahead of the Test series. On Monday he posted a picture with Australian selector, coach and former Test captain Mark Taylor on Twitter. It has since been removed. The post was captioned: "Looking forward to being a Senior Advisor to @CricketAus and seeing many more Australian led ICC tournaments." Quick Single: India's Smith, pre-Ashes confidence vs public The Australian Cricketers' Association said that while Anasta
